ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS:

Many thanks to the Deputy Governors and the Clerks of each institution who provided their Correctional Centre's Weekly State on a regular basis before the data began to routinely extracted from the Department's computer database the Offender Management System (OMS) their Correctional Centre's Weekly State on a regular basis.

Thanks also to the staff of the Research and Statistics Unit who were involved with the compilation of these statistics: Nicolle Brown who collected and collated the information and typed the returns, Barbara Thompson who assisted with the introduction and checked the returns, as well as Antonia Barila, Margaret Bowery and Simon Corben who also checked the returns.

INTRODUCTION

This is the Twelfth collection of inmate statistics derived from the Weekly States reports. The "Weekly States" is a statistical collection of information about the inmate population of each correctional centre in NSW as at midnight Sunday each week.

The department introduced new software onto its mainframe computer on 12th May 1997. This new software, called the Offender Management System (OMS), also introduced new systems for the counting of inmates' numbers. This publication incorporates several minor changes made to the counting rules and methods of counting of inmates which are highlighted separately under each category examined. Due to complications associated with the introduction of the OMS, this publication combines the weekly states for the three financial years: 1996/97, 1997/98 and 1998/99.

As for previous years, the information is categorised in terms of the correctional centre, the sex of the inmate, and whether the inmate is being held under sentence (serving a determinate sentence or life sentence or held as a forensic patient or fine defaulter) or not under sentence (remandee, appellant or deportee). Totals for inmates in full-time custody are separated from periodic detainees. Two counts are provided for periodic detainees: a count of those who actually attended periodic detention during any week; and a count of the number of people with periodic detention orders. There is also an overall count for each of the reasons given for non-attendance as known at that detention period. These are grouped as "reasons known" (in full-time custody, on appeal with bail or leave (sick or other) applied for) and absent without leave (no reason given, or legal action pending). Each week's total state is compared with the highest and lowest weekly state in the previous twelve months, as well as with the weekly state of the previous week.

Information on the numbers held on segregation and protection have not been included for this publication due to difficulties associated with the introduction of the OMS. However, the number of appellants and the number of juveniles (aged less than 18 years) is presented. Accommodation details including a comparison of the design accommodation of the institution with the numbers of inmates held are also provided, although after 1/7/1998 this was changed to "operational capacity" of the correctional centre. Since November 1991 information is also presented on the numbers of fine defaulters (inmates in custody for the sole reason of default of fine) and the numbers held on remand or for trial. The number of fine defaulters, appellants, remands/trials and juveniles at Junee (the state's only private prison) are also shown.

The "Weekly States" is, as the name implies, issued on a weekly basis. The purpose of this annual collection is to present information from these Weekly States statistical reports in a more convenient format to facilitate those interested in examining trends. Tables and graphs portraying weekly totals of:

- full-time custody versus periodic detainees;
- sentenced versus unsentenced;
- males versus females;
- male periodic detainees versus female periodic detainees;
- those held in maximum versus medium versus minimum security institutions;
- appellants;
- fine defaulters;

for each Sunday in the 1996/97, 1997/98 and 1998/99 financial years are provided in this publication. In addition, individual Weekly States reports for the first Sunday in each month as well as the last Sunday in the financial year are reproduced. To place the 1996-99 figures in context, a summary of NSW inmate population trends since 1973 is also provided.

The information in this publication replaces any figures previously released.

HIGHLIGHTS

The 1998/99 daily average of 6835 inmates in full-time custody was 493 higher than for 1997/98 (6342) which was, in turn only 28 higher than for 1996/97 (6314).

This rise in the daily average for 1998/99 (+7.8%) was driven by a rapid rise in numbers of inmates in full-time custody, from around early May 1998.

There was a rise in numbers of full-time inmates of 872 in the period May 1998 - June 1999. This 14% increase in inmates over this period was similar to that experienced in the rapid expansion in inmate numbers that occurred following the introduction of the NSW Sentencing Act, 1989. Inmate numbers had remained at a fairly level plateau for five to six years following the introduction of this "Truth in Sentencing" legislation only to experience this very rapid increase from May 1998.

This increase is also reflected in the difference between the highest and lowest weekly states numbers encountered during 1998/99 a difference of 765 inmates. This is nearly the capacity of the state's largest correctional centre, the MRRC which had a daily average population of 879 for 1998/99.

The rapid increase in numbers was experienced by both male and female inmates in full-time custody although the female rate was nearly double the male rate. The unsentenced inmate population increased at more than double the rate for the sentenced population over the last year.

(1) These figures refer to the security classifications of the institutions in which the inmates were held. They do not refer to individual inmate security classifications.

NOTE: All inmates at Parklea (complex of minimum, medium and maximum security) apart from the Work Release Block and inmates at Mulawa are counted as medium security.

The increase in the maximum security population between 1996/97 and 1997/98 was mainly the result of the closure of the medium security Parramatta Correctional Centre and the opening of the maximum security Metropolitan Remand and Reception Centre. During the following years Parramatta was reopened on 30/11/98 as minimum, part of Cessnock changed from minimum to maximum, various wings at Long Bay, Mulawa, Parklea (maximum, medium, minimum) were reopened and Periodic Detention accommodation at Long Bay and Silverwater (minimum security) was reclassified for full-time inmates.

Classification of Inmates in Full-time Custody

Note: the increase in the maximum security population between 1996/97 to 1997/98 was mainly the result of the closure of the medium security Parramatta Correctional Centre and the opening of the maximum security Metropolitan Remand and Reception Centre. During the following years Parramatta was reopened on 30/11/98 as minimum, part of Cessnock changed from minimum to maximum, various wings at Long Bay, Mulawa and Parklea (Maximum, Medium, Minimum) were reopened and Periodic Detention accommodation at Long Bay and Silverwater (minimum security) reclassified for full-time inmates.

REVISED WEEKLY STATES REPORTS

This Weekly States Report for 3rd May 1998 is the first in a revised format. The following changes have been made.

	Old Format	Revised Format	Effect
Total Inmate Numbers	Supplied by centres or taken from OMS	Taken from OMS apart from Special Purpose Centre and Junee	Should be the same
Temporary Absentees	Temporary absentees omitted	Temporary absentees included	Total number higher
Remand/ Sentenced/ Fine Default Status	Supplied by centres or taken from Imprisonment Status on OMS	Assessed by actual sentences on OMS	Number of remands and fine defaulters less
Appellant Status	Supplied by centres or taken from OMS Imprisonment Status	Counted from current unheard appeals on OMS	Number of appellants less

In the past the inmate yearly average has included temporary absentees. These changes will bring the Weekly States totals into line with the yearly average. They also provide far more accurate sentence status breakdowns.

Numbers on protection, segregation and work release will still need to be supplied by the correctional centres although it is hoped that this information will eventually be accurately entered onto OMS and so provide for automatic data analysis.

Example for the weeks ending 31st August, 1997 and 19th April, 1998

	31st August 1997		19th April 1998
	Old	Revised	Old	Revised
Remand	1033	1010	1121	1068
Appellants	364	301	443	423
Fine Defaulters	141	112	0	0
Sentenced (including appellants)	5328	5378	5212	5282
Total	6364	6389	6340	6350
