

INSP Fact sheet

The immediate needs support package (INSP) is aimed at providing a grant of financial assistance to primary victims of domestic violence to meet their immediate needs following an act of violence.

The immediate needs support package may include the following items/services:

- Security expenses
- Relocation expenses
- Furniture and household items, and
- Assistance with basic clothing and toiletries

The INSP you are eligible for will depend on your particular circumstances and the needs you have as a direct result of the act of violence.

Who is eligible for the immediate needs support package?

You may be eligible for the immediate needs support package if you were the primary victim of domestic violence that occurred in NSW and:

- the act of violence occurred less than 2 years ago (or you are under 20 years of age) and
- you need to urgently relocate as a direct result of the act of violence and/or install security at your home.

What is domestic violence?

The Victims Rights and Support Act 2013 defines domestic violence as a violent offence committed where the offender:

- is or was your spouse or de facto spouse,
- is or was in an intimate personal relationship with you,
- lived with you at the time of the violent act, or
- is your parent, guardian, child or step-child, sibling, half-sibling or step-sibling.

If the act of violence did not occur in these relationships, you will not be eligible for an immediate needs support package. You may still apply for financial assistance for your immediate needs but you will need to submit receipts or other evidence of your expenditure.

How do I apply for the INSP?

You will need to complete and sign the INSP Claim Form and email it to vsin@justice.nsw.gov.au along with the evidence required.

For your claim for financial assistance for immediate needs to be considered, you must have submitted an Application for support for primary victims in relation to the domestic violence.

If you have not already done so, this can be done online at the following link:

<https://vsconnect.force.com/vsapplications/s/primary-victim-claim>

If you have already submitted an application, you do not need to submit another one. Instead, please provide the relevant application number on the INSP Claim Form.

What will I need to apply for INSP?

- A completed Application for support for primary victims
- A completed INSP Claim Form
- ID – A current government issued identification such as a driver's license, passport, Medicare card, or a card issued by Centrelink
- You must provide details of a bank account in your name. If you would like victims support payments to be made to an account in another name, please contact the Victims Access Line before submitting your application as we will require you to provide further documentation to accept your application.
- If you did not report the violence to the police, you will need information from a government or non-government organisation that you reported the domestic violence to, or a medical report that shows how you have been affected by the violence.

What information should a support letter include?

If you are providing a support letter from a service provider the letter should contain a detailed description of the act of violence and information about your circumstances since the act of violence occurred. It should also provide an explanation as to how the INSP claimed are needed as a direct result of the act of violence. Your application may be delayed if the information provided does not establish why you need the packages claimed, or how they relate to the act of violence.

How much financial assistance will I receive?

If your claim is approved, you will receive a grant of up to $5,000. The approval will consist of the packages you have claimed to secure your immediate needs as a direct result of the act of violence.

I have already incurred expenses for relocation and/or security. Can I apply for reimbursement?

You can still apply for reimbursement through the victims support scheme, as an alternative to applying for the INSP. You will need to provide receipts or other evidence of expenditure for such items to vs@justice.nsw.gov.au

What is not covered by the INSP?

The items claimed must be basic and essential items required as a direct result of the act of violence, rather than as a result of financial hardship. Items not covered by the package include:

- debts, including for rental arrears and bond
- property loss or damage
- non-essential household items, for example televisions and motor vehicles
- legal fees and disbursements.

Do I need to provide receipts/invoices for my immediate needs support package claim?

No, you do not need to submit receipts with the claim. Instead, you are required to sign a declaration agreeing that you will use any approved funds for the purpose for which they have been granted.

You need to keep any receipts or invoices for a period of five years. Victims Services may request you to submit these at any time during that five year period, should you make a further claim for financial assistance.

What if I disagree with the Assessor's decision?

You can request an internal review of the Assessor's decision within 90 days of when you receive the decision.

If you have any questions about the immediate needs support package, you can contact the Victims Access Line on 1800 633 063.
